COUPLE TO COUPLE LEAGUE

Primary Features

CCL takes a “grass-roots” approach to NFP instruction – couples teaching couples – and has been taught by and to more couples than any other method. By always involving both the husband and wife, NFP is taught as a way of life, not just as a method to postpone or achieve pregnancy. Classes also include instruction on breast feeding and natural mothering.

Type of Instruction

Instruction is provided in pre-scheduled group classes held once a month for four consecutive months. Individualized instruction can be arranged, and a correspondence course is also available.

Cost

$99 - 130 depending on the mode of instruction (i.e. self-paced, live class online, live class in person).

Indexes Utilized

FEMM HEALTH

Primary Features

The FEMM method of NFP, like other methods, helps couples manage their family size by avoiding or achieving pregnancy. This is done by primarily understanding and observing cervical mucus throughout the cycle. Alongside cervical mucus observations, FEMM utilizes LH testing to help pinpoint ovulation. FEMM focuses on educating women so they can better understand their bodies and recognize vital signs of health. Similar to Creighton, FEMM has a medical management component that is beneficial for women with abnormal fertility and/or hormonal disorders.

Type of Instruction

There are three introductory sessions spaced 3 weeks apart with follow-ups following as needed.

The information from the monitor is used in conjunction with observations of cervical mucus and basal body temperature to determine the fertile and infertile phases of a woman's menstrual cycle.

Type of Instruction

The full course of instruction is provided in sessions held once a month for three consecutive months in group or private settings in person or online.

Cost
