

Bishop's Letter

Alleluia! He is risen indeed!

Beloved Children of God:

Alleluia! He is Risen! Jesus, through the gift of God, plunges into death, taking our sin with Him, arising out of the tomb, and gathers us eternally within the bosom of His Sacred Heart. On this Easter morning, we hear our salvation history come alive through Mary Magdalen's report of the empty tomb. We run with the apostles, Peter and John, to see for ourselves what we have heard. We arrive at the empty tomb surrounded by all the faithful, the choir of angels and the communion of saints and we praise God and rejoice. The message of this death of Jesus is not about life ending, rather it is about life beginning. God is with us always. He tells us to seek what is above; to continue to seek God in all our ways that we are not led away from Him.

TOURISM

Serving at the Basilica of the National Shrine of Mary, Queen of the Universe continues to be a deeply rewarding ministry. The beauty of the liturgy, our collaboration with the Diaconate Formation Program, and the opportunity to accompany pilgrims in prayer and conversation make this service especially meaningful.

As visitation grows, we are having trouble covering all scheduled Mass times. We invite deacons to consider volunteering—even once per quarter—to support this important ministry to the thousands who visit the Basilica.

If you would like to be included in the rotation, please contact Deacon Joe Gassman.

APPLICATIONS FOR COHORT 2032

The diaconate formation admissions team is in full gear reviewing the applications that have been received from men discerning a call to the permanent diaconate. Each application is thoroughly reviewed by several members of the team, and a decision will be made on who to call in for interviews in May. After the interviews are complete, we expect to recommend approximately 20 men to Bishop Noonan for inclusion in the formal Discernment Year starting in September. Please pray for the admissions team, the applicants, and their wives.

Kassandra Pagan's Story

I am Kassandra Pagan,

Growing up, my parents describe me as a happy, energetic little girl. But I was born with a condition that caused me to be in and out of the hospital many times each year. Year after year, I was hospitalized because of intense pain that required strong pain medication, IV fluids, and many blood transfusions just for me to feel better. I also went through multiple surgeries because of organ damage and complications from this disease. I was born with Sickle Cell Disease.

Sickle cell anemia is an inherited blood disorder, meaning a person is born with it because it is passed down by their parents. It affects the red blood cells, which carry oxygen throughout the body. Instead of being round and moving easily through the blood vessels, the cells become stiff and sickle shaped. This can cause blockages, leading to severe pain, infections, fatigue, organ damage, and even death. Living with this condition is not only physically painful, but also spiritually challenging.

During my journey, I had many ups and downs. At times, I felt hopeless, crying out to God and wondering, does He hear me, or does He hear me but is not paying attention to my pain and tears? I would beg and pray that He would cure me, that a miracle might happen, just like the miracles my parents read to me in the Gospels where Jesus heals the sick.

I remember my mom and dad taking me to adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, and all I could do was ask Him, if it was His will, to please let me be cured. I would cry and pour out my heart before Him with my mom and dad. I did not want to continue having those painful crises. I did not want to live in fear. I cried in desperation for sixteen years. This desperation would sometimes fill my faith with doubt. Did God really listen to prayers? Does He really care? Does He listen to the prayers of children? Does He listen to mine? I will tell you one thing that I know now. God surely does listen. He was listening every time I prayed, every time my parents prayed for me to be protected, to be healthy, and to live a long life. God listened to my family's prayers and cries. He also listened to the prayers of the members of our church, St.

Rose of Lima, who were always praying for me. You see, God had been working behind the scenes through science, guiding the scientists in their work and bringing the cure my way. It just took fourteen years.

I remember, sitting in my oncologist office, thinking it would be a regular appointment. But little did I know that this appointment would change my life. My doctor began to talk about a treatment called gene therapy that had recently been approved by the FDA, called Lyfgenia, a treatment that could cure sickle cell disease, and that I was a perfect candidate for. At that moment, I did not know what to think. I did not understand the process, and I felt anxious about going through something so life changing. I began to wrestle with the decision. Can you believe that? I started doubting if I should even be cured.

I had cried out to the Lord so many times in my pain and had not received a miracle of healing. I had been in pain for so long in my young life that I had learned to live with this condition. Pain was just a part of my life. Still, there was a light of hope inside of me. A hope of trying new things and finally being able to live my life without the fear of pain coming at any moment. I held on to that hope, even in my anxiety. I held on to God's hand, walked the path He placed before me, and trusted Him along the way, even in the middle of uncertainty. And I am so glad I did. Because I came to see that my prayers were answered, not in the way I expected, not through a sudden healing miracle, but in a different and beautiful way.

My doctor said that Gene therapy is a treatment that uses a patient's own stem cells to fix the problem causing the disease. So they were going to use my own cells, the same ones that cause me all my pains and alter them, and cure me with them. My journey began with many blood exchange transfusions over a year to keep me as stable and as free from pain as possible. Then doctors collected my stem cells from my blood. These cells were sent to a laboratory, where they were modified to produce healthy hemoglobin instead of sickle hemoglobin. This process took several months. When the cells were ready, I was admitted to the hospital and received chemotherapy for four days to make space in my bone marrow for the new cells to grow. After the chemo, I received my corrected stem cells back into my body through an IV. All this happened during the season of lent.

I spent a total of five weeks in the hospital. So while others were figuring out what to give up for lent, I was receiving many medications, blood transfusions, and platelet transfusions. I felt very sick because of the chemotherapy, which weakened my immune system. But by the fourth week, I started to feel better, and my body began to recover. Now, my body is producing healthy red blood cells that do not sickle. Today, I can say that I have been cured. I continue with my doctor's appointments as my immune system fully recovers and my body heals from the effects of chemotherapy. I have so many dreams for my future. Now I can learn how to swim without the fear of getting pain afterward. I dream of traveling long distances without worrying about my oxygen levels dropping or having sudden pain. I dream of going back to school to be with my friends, and one day, when I am an adult, working without the fear of losing a job because of my condition.

I am so grateful and thankful that God made this possible for me. Because if it was not for Him, for all the prayers, and for the doctors, nurses, and scientists, I would not be where I am today. Now, I pray for others to be cured too. I have faith that they will. I trust in Jesus, and I know that they will be, through His mercy.

FDLC Updates: The Order of Christian Funerals

The USCCB Secretariat of Divine Worship, in collaboration with the Federation of Diocesan Liturgical Commissions (FDLC), has prepared a national survey on the Order of Christian Funerals. This survey will assist the bishops of the Committee on Divine Worship as they review the ICEL Green Book translation. The feedback received will play a critical role as the Committee reviews the rites and texts which have no equivalent in the Latin editio typica.

We kindly ask that you distribute the link to this survey through your network of contacts, especially to anyone involved in ministry to the dead and bereaved.

Click here to register. We will accept responses to the survey from now until the end of April.

Please accept the gratitude of the Committee on Divine Worship in advance for your participation with this important consultation. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact us. Thank you for your assistance and for your work in sacred ministry.

2026 Deacon Summer Workshop

Journeying with St. Paul the Missionary

Fr. Llano B. Briese, STD, a brilliant scripture scholar and a popular professor here at SVDP, will delve into the writings of St. Paul.

In response to recent calls to missionary discipleship, he will look to the Church's most prolific missionary disciple, St. Paul, on his three missionary journeys especially as reflected in his earliest letters. We shall especially look at the Pauline texts read as second readings in Year A. See BIO at www.svdp.edu/ongoing-formation.

Each year St. Vincent de Paul Regional Seminary sponsors an event offering ongoing formation for permanent deacons. The workshop begins with a 6:00 pm dinner on Thursday followed by the first presentation and a social in the seminary's Community Center. It closes on Sunday with an 11:00 am Mass and a full brunch. This format is designed to enable deacons to attend without losing an entire work week.

Daily Mass, Morning Prayer, and Evening Prayer is included in the schedule, as well as times for rest, quiet prayer and shared company. Meals are exceptional and each evening includes a social. Our beautiful grounds provide spaces for walking, running or just meditating quietly. The exercise facility is fully equipped. An outdoor 24-yard swimming pool is always open. Each participant will enjoy a private bedroom and bath.

Do consider taking a break from your busy schedule to learn, relax, pray, and enjoy the camaraderie of fellow deacons from around the country.
